

Assume we upload a file with 3G and there are 3 nodes. The file will be divided to 3 files on node1 node2 and node3. Master will remember the file node and waiting for all node's success. And then return success to the Client. While client download the file, which should send the file and file md5 to master and the master return nodes and then client download from nodes and remake it to get the full file.